Quiet Time Thoughts

Psa 32:3 For when I kept silent, my bones wasted away through my groaning all day long.

When we are silent about our sin and shortcomings, our souls suffer. What begins as intentional minimizing of sin turns into blindness to both sin and its effects. Our view of ourselves is skewed. We begin to say, "This is just who I am." sin damages our connection to God and others.

As we confess and repent, God welcomes us back. Although the consequences remain, God's forgiveness and the penetrating light of His truth bring life and restoration to our souls and relationships.
